Many girls choose to chop off their hair when mercury rises, but not Christina Ricci! The actress actually lengthened her locks for summer — with the help of some hair extensions. Ricci chose Great Lengths Extensions to add inches to her hair, during a process that took about two hours at Nine Zero One salon in West Hollywood. "I love having pretty long hair in the summertime," Ricci, who has been known to experiment with her hair, tells PEOPLE exclusively, "so I really wanted to get Great Lengths Extensions to wear after the Met Ball and enjoy all summer until I have to change my hair again for a project." And as for matching the extensions to her current hair color, well, it was a cinch. "Great Lengths provides us with a wide range of swatch colors. Nine times out of 10 the match is perfect," salon co-owner Nikki Lee adds. "If not, we can always put an all-over toner once the extensions are in for flawless results." Easy enough! Your eyes are not playing tricks on you. Jamie-Lynn Sigler's hair is about a half a foot longer now than it was last week — and she can thank hair stylist Eliut Rivera for her lush new mane. Rivera used Great Lengths Hair Extensions on Sigler's do, adding six plus inches of hair. The cost? About $3000. Time? About four hours. Rivera gave us a few tips for Jamie and other girls who want to know how to keep extensions looking gorgeous:

- 1) Always brush hair with extensions by using a paddle brush with natural bristles.
- 2) Always sleep with hair tied back in a ponytail to avoid tangles.
- 3) Never get a conditioning treatment while extensions are attached — it can soften the glue and cause them to fall out!
